

THE BARRE DAILY TIMES

Subscriptions: One year, $8; one month, 75 cts.; single copy, 1 cent.
Members of the Publishers' Press.—The latest telegraphic news from all parts of the world are received by the Daily Times up to the hour of going to press.
Frank N. Langley, Publisher.
Published Every Weekday Afternoon.
Entered at the postoffice at Barre as second class matter.
TUESDAY, JULY 21, 1903.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

2,704

A Thousand A Day

more copies of the Times are printed and sold than of any competitor in Barre.

The Daily Times

is the only daily in Washington County that publishes its circulation so that all readers and advertisers may know what it is.

Do you have an advertisement in it?

We've no intention of writing an article on "Office Manners," but simply wish to mention that we have Office Coats so thin that they are as comfortable as shirt sleeves.

We have Collars, two for a quarter, so there is no necessity for sticking a handkerchief round the neck, and

"Thanking you for these kind words" we remain

Yours very truly,

Rogers & Grady Co.,

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

Miss Alice I. Hazeltine has resigned as teacher of English literature at St. Johnsbury Academy, having secured a position in the public schools of the city of New York.

Capt. J. Harry Estey, of Brattleboro, is now on his way home from Europe, where he has been traveling in Germany and England two months in the interests of the Estey organ Co.

Ernest Williams of St. Albans killed a hedgehog with a club yesterday afternoon while the 30-cent bounty jumper was preparing to enjoy himself in Dorsey Taylor's orchard on Santa Main street. The animal weighed 12 pounds.

John Shannon of Rutland was sent to the Rutland jail on Saturday on a warrant charging him with intoxication. Jail life seems to be exceedingly attractive to Shannon as this makes 122 times that he has been confined within prison walls.

Noah Lafayette of Starksboro, took a dose of poison July 9 and died July 15. He had been under the influence of liquor since July 4, and is said to have repeatedly stated that he would commit suicide if he could not leave liquor alone. A wife and seven children survive him.

Judge Henry C. Ide of the Philippine commission, who has been spending the past month at his old home in St. Johnsbury, will sail from San Francisco August 18 on the Coptic. Judge Ide's six months' leave of absence will expire in September, and he will return to Manila in excellent health.

The plans for the new government building at Burlington have been forwarded to Congressmen Foster for final examination. Several changes have been made since the preliminary plans were made and they are now believed to be satisfactory to all parties concerned. It is expected that the bids for the construction of the building will be called for in September.

EFFECTS OF HIGH ALTITUDE

Professor Kemp Studying What It Does to Persons of Poor Blood.

Professor G. T. Kemp of the University of Illinois is now conducting experiments in the high school building at Cripple Creek, Colo., in regard to the effect of a high altitude on persons who have poor blood, says the New York Herald.

He is being assisted by five students of the Champaign college, who have one of their fingers punctured twice each day and from three to four drops of blood taken out and carefully examined. Professor Kemp expects to remain in Cripple Creek for some time.

Sure Death to Mosquitoes.

Each day we pick the papers up and read of some new way.

To smother the bad mosquito in his irritating play.

They tell us if we burn a lot of sulphur in the room

'Twill send the skeeter scurrying ahead to meet his doom.

But if you do not care to breathe the sulphuretted mist

You'll find it just as certain if you slap him on the wrist.

Also they've found a little worm, a parasite pest

That loves to hit the skeeter in the center of his chest.

And make him feel a bitter, green cucumber sort of twinge

And twist his spinal column till it doubles like a hinge.

If there's no paregoric, then the skeeter will be missed.

But he is dead and done for if you slap him on the wrist.

'Tis said that giving him a bath in crude petroleum

Will make him fold his vibrant wings and make his voice be dumb.

Or if you spray him carefully with strong formaldehyde

Into the dim hereafter he will most assuredly glide.

Some eucalyptus ointment, too, will cause him to desert.

But you are sure to kill him if you slap him on the wrist.

The latest theory is that if you will find his key—

The note upon the scale that he regards with lively gloze.

The sippy, soomy, stazy note he sings as swift he flies—

And play it for him, when you do the bold mosquito dies.

But why prolong the agony? Why finish out the list?

It's safe to bet he's dead if you have slapped him on the wrist.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Two of a Kind.
Now returns the gay mosquito,
Like the doctor with his pill,
Every time he gives you poison
He presents a little bill.
—Puck.

Not Ready.
Has she had the baby christened?
Marjorie—Good gracious, no! She hasn't had its photograph taken yet—Judge.

Feminine.
The trouble with your sex, men say,
Is that 'tis yielding never;
The maids they want love but a day
And those they don't love forever.
—New York Times.

A Mute Appeal.
"Mamma," asked young curiosity,
"when dent and dumb people cheer do their fingers get tired?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Generosity.
The man who says he likes to work,
We hold him in affection rare.
We let him do his stint of toil
And likewise offer him our share.
—Washington Star.

An Expert at Both.
Client—I called to see you about a will.
Lawyer—Make or break?—Puck.

"Be Gentle," Etc.
Be gentle with your landlord
In what you say and do.
If you but treat him kindly,
Why, he'll be nice to you.
—Newark Evening News.

Nothing but Money.
He—Worth half a million, isn't he?
She—Yes, but otherwise he's worthless.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Business Proposition.

"Come, Freddie, don't you want to kiss Uncle Robert?"
"No, I don't want to, but I will for a nickel."—San Francisco Examiner.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Miss Lillie Sullivan, chief illustrator in entomology at the department of agriculture, Washington, is dead.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt has assisted in organizing the Oyster Bay Book club and has done much toward promoting its interests.

Miss Jennie Nicholson Browne has passed an examination in medicine by the Maryland state board with an average of 92 1/2 per cent.

Miss Enid Shaw, eldest daughter of the secretary of the treasury, was graduated from Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Ia., her father's alma mater, on June 18.

A little Miss Becker who has lately arrived in St. Louis is the object of an interest not wholly local. She is the first girl baby born into the family for 140 years.

Mrs. A. Lloyd Smith is the president of a company organized with a capital stock of $100,000 to propagate eastern oysters in Willitta harbor, Washington. Mrs. Smith has large interests in Mexican rubber plantations and mines.

Florence Nightingale, whose eighty-third birthday occurred recently, is spending her old age at Hampshire, England. She received her education in Germany, and the Empress Friedrich subsequently became one of the most ardent supporters of her ideas regarding woman's work in war time.

Among the most active lady managers of the St. Louis exposition is Mrs. Annie E. Moore of Fort Worth, Tex. At one time Mrs. Moore enjoyed the distinction of being the only woman bank president in the United States, the National bank of Mount Pleasant, Tex., being the institution over which she presided.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Russia should not make the mistake of trying to answer a letter before it has been put in the post office.—Washington Star.

The country does not need and its business interests are not asking for any plan to digest securities that cannot and ought not to be digested.—New York Press.

A negro and a Chinaman having won the highest honors at Yale, it would appear that the color line has been so strictly drawn that the white students cannot pass it.—Philadelphia North American.

Hawaii has a pressing "labor problem" on its hands. It is the question how to make people work in a climate which produces food in such abundance that they don't have to.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Socialist gains in the German elections ought to convince the Kaiser of the impossibility of stopping the propaganda by denunciatory harangues. He might now try the effect of reforming the conditions which make Socialists.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Oriental Dancers.
Oriental women are very graceful while young and not too fat. Their dances are like the Delia movements, but all are done on the space of a rug by only one dancer at a time. If men are present the dancer remains veiled unless they are husband, father or brother.

L. P. & H. C. GLEASON, Montpelier, Vt.

GOWN GOSSIP.

Foundation skirts for net and other lacy gowns are often as elaborate as the gowns themselves.

Pongee colored shoes and stockings are offered. They are almost the exact shade of undyed pongee. These stockings are nearly all of silk and are expensive.

Corset coats are made in pongees and Shangtungs without linings. The number of gosses varies from sixteen to twenty. The same coats in pique, linen and duck are popular.

There will be no decline in the vogue of the white wash waist for autumn wear, the importers say. Heavy white linens and chevrons are being brought to this country in great quantities.

Patent leather belts five inches wide have three folds in the center, reducing the width to three inches. They are liked for very slender, girlish figures. On any other they would be cumbersome.

With silk slips of several colors it is possible to make a Brussels net gown afford a variety of changes. A white slip should always be provided and one of the most becoming color. Sashes and other decorations should be varied to match the different slips.—New York Post.

POULTRY POINTERS.

For indigestion give the fowls plenty of sharp gravel.

In breeding for color always select birds a shade darker than the color desired.

If an egg is clear after being under a hen five days it is infertile and will not hatch.

The profits in poultry are the largest where the hens eat what would otherwise be thrown away, as is usually the case on the farm.

Fowls that must be fed in summer should be fed regularly. If fed twice a day feed lightly in the morning and give a full feed at night.

After the hatching season is over, usually it will be best to sell off the cockerels and all hens that are more than two years old, unless especially valuable as brooders.

Little Pages.
It was not until 1470 that a title page was introduced to books and in England not till shortly before 1490, when W. De Machline issued one to his little book on the pestilence. Caxton never used them, but Wynkyn De Worde employed them in nearly all his books.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS

Should Read Gen. John B. Gordon's

every man finds work hard in the hot summer months.

Hot weather energy is comparatively a rare quality. Men who are full of activity and "ginger" in temperate weather, find it almost impossible to accomplish their work in summer. An will aid you a great deal during the hot spell, because it does away with the wasteful consumption of energy caused by the strain which every man experiences.

O-P-C suspensory

There is nothing which affects a man's energy more than hot, sultry weather. There is nothing which will help it as much as an O-P-C suspensory. Our stock of O-P-C suspensories is complete
